Outsourcing / delegation is a fact of life in the financial services industry and has been for many years. It is neither good nor bad in and of itself. However, the key to good outsourcing is appropriately managing the associated risks. Although investment fund managers have been outsourcing to a greater or lesser degree for many years, regulators around the world have been examining these relationships more thoroughly since the financial crisis and have identified potential areas of concern, notably related to cybersecurity when using IT outsourcing or cloud computing infrastructures.
